“ As a teenager I met the Everitt family after they moved to Schnieder. I loved spending time with the family. What I remember most was the sacrifices Al made to his family. He worked too far to drive from home everyday so he lived in an apartment away from the family during the week and would come home weekends. He always came home Friday afternoon with a car full of groceries and always stopped at the bread store for the best deals. He sacrificed so his family was safe and secure. I had huge respect for Al. He taught me how a father and husband should be a good provider and do what's needed without complaint. Al was a man of integrity and faith and wanted the best for the family he loved. He gave me advice about things I understood only years later when I would have a family of my own. Al inspired me in many ways I never shared with him and he didn't know. Al was a man of character with a heart of gold. We need more people like Al in this world. I feel blessed to have known him.
