Your qualities and love sent ripples through the lives of so many. Our mom, always looking for artistic expression whether through intricate drawings, extravagant floral arrangements, or her ability to capture time in her scrap books. A generous heart searching for ways to bless others with whatever she could. Whoever came into her life she stamped her seal on their hearts, one that will stand to time indefinite. We love you mom with every fiber and breath of our being. We keep our eyes on the future when you and all of us will "return to the days of his youthful vigor"-Job 33:25

“ Recently met Shirley at the hospital where she shared a room with my sister. I felt like we had been friends forever and I was looking forward to more visits with her. The most beautiful memory I have of her is how her children and grandchildren came to be with her and Terry everyday. They showed so much love that I knew she was a wonderful mother. I feel it's a big loss for this family not to have her there in their lives. I'm sorry for all of you who go on without her. I too will miss her and the friendship that we would have shared

Think You so much for those words. I'm her son and he is hard to live without. A hole that is closing slowly over time.

Warner Costley - September 27, 2013 at 09:32 PM

Dear JESUS, I come before you today knowing that all power is in Your hand. I know that you are the Lord and that you care for your people.

Right now, my friends are struggling with difficult trials. I can see their strength is faltering, Lord, and know that you have all of the strength that they need.

I pray that you will reach down and touch them right now wherever they are at this moment. Let your presence fill the room where they are and let them feel an extra portion of your strength that can help them to get through this day.

They need you now, Lord, and I thank you in advance for meeting them where they are and shoring up their strength during this difficult time. In the name of Jesus, Amen
